

Transportation System Resilience, Extreme Weather and Climate Change

Global transportation infrastructure today is confronted with significant challenges, including the escalating threats of our changing climate.

This series brings together distinguished experts to discuss challenges, opportunities, and fresh approaches related to these pressing issues.

A Thought Leadership Series

Join us in person or via webinar at www.volpe.dot.gov

View videos and presentations of recent speakers at www.volpe.dot.gov

SERIES KICK-OFF
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 2013

Special introduction by Gregory D. Winfree
Assistant Secretary for Research and Technology
U.S. Department of Transportation

Steve Winkelman

Director of Transportation and Adaptation Programs
Center for Clean Air Policy

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 2013

Dr. Klaus H. Jacob

Special Research Scientist
Lamont-Doherty Earth Observatory, and Adjunct Professor
School of International and Public Affairs
Columbia University

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 2013

Susanne E. DesRoches, LEED AP
Assistant Chief, Resilience and Sustainability
Port Authority of New York and New Jersey

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 2013

Gregg Fleming

Director, Center for Environmental and Energy Systems
U.S. Department of Transportation, Volpe Center

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 2014

Dr. Kerry Emanuel

Cecil and Ida Green Professor of Atmospheric Science
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 2014

NOTE CHANGE IN START TIME TO 11:30 AM ET

William Lyons

Principal Technical Advisor in Transportation Planning
U.S. Department of Transportation, Volpe Center

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2014

Vinn White

Senior Policy Advisor
U.S. Department of Transportation

THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 2014

Dr. Jerry Melillo

Distinguished Scientist and Director Emeritus
The Ecosystems Center
Marine Biological Laboratory
Woods Hole, Massachusetts

U.S. Department of Transportation
Volpe, The National Transportation Systems Center

Lectures: 12:00 – 12:45 p.m. Eastern Time

55 Broadway / Kendall Square / Cambridge, Massachusetts

The views of the presenters do not necessarily reflect those of the U.S. DOT.

For more information on this series, contact: Ellen E. Bell,
Director of Strategic Initiatives for Research and Innovation, Volpe Center.

