

TRANSPORTATION and the ECONOMY

Leading Globally Succeeding Locally

COMING SOON

A New Thought Leadership Speaker Series

This special series will consider emerging and future issues crucial to the U.S. transportation system's ability to keep pace with the rising demand to move people and goods and remain competitive in today's global economy.

Link in via webinar or join us in person: www.volpe.dot.gov
Events are held from 12 noon – 12:45 p.m. at the Volpe Center, Cambridge, MA.

For more information, please contact Ellen Bell, Director of Strategic Initiatives for Research and Innovation, Volpe: ellen.bell@dot.gov.

Volpe is committed to providing equal access to this event for all participants. If you need alternative formats or services because of a disability, please contact Michael Osakawicz, Labor and Employee Relations Branch Chief, Volpe, at 617-494-2146 or michael.osakawicz@dot.gov with your request as soon as possible or close of business two weeks prior to the event.